1) Introductions

Members introduced themselves

2) Apologies

Apologies for absence were noted

3) Minutes of the meeting held on 12th October at The Travellers Club/matters arising

The minutes from this meeting were approved. It was noted that although only a small number of people attended, and despite some issues with Binni's meal, overall it had been an enjoyable event.

Sian reported that she had now taken over as representative on the Historic Libraries Forum.

Gill reported back on the outcome of the meeting with JISC around collaborative negotiations for electronic resources. Essentially all the people who attended came from organisations with a particular interest in science, and the deals being proposed by JISC were linked to large science database providers. If the scheme goes ahead, participants would be allocated a JISC band, and would then pay a fee to access discounts on deals within the scheme. This might be of interest to other APML members and Gill will feed back any progress, though it seems likely this will not be in place until 2019.

Binni mentioned that Nick Poole had agreed to be a speaker at the July meeting.

5) Training Group update

Sian informed everyone that no meeting was organised at the moment. She had been trying to organise a speaker on GDPR but without success; however there would be one at the next LLPSLG meeting in March, after which Sian will send an email out to see if people still wanted another event (bearing in mind that implementation is by May 25th).

6) 'Classification as World View' – Anne Welsh

Anne, who is an LIS lecturer at UCL, gave a talk to the group on her PhD studies on classification. She argues that classification at a local level is more useful to the reader than global systems which are imposed. The way books are classified in a library represent the individual who has created the system and tell us a great deal about the history of the library and its users. She urged us all to look at any existing documentation about the implementation of systems in our libraries as they will inform us about the collections.

7) Archives group update

Karen reported that 12 people had attended the last meeting on Nov 21st. The speaker had been Megan Smith from the Parliamentary Archives who had talked about employing a conservator. Karen will add notes to the website along with a summary of everyone's activities. Next meeting will be March/April time, but not arranged yet.

8) Any other business

Sian mentioned a forthcoming meeting regarding the new National Bibliographic Database and the issues relating to uploading catalogues to COPAC and SUNCAT. She will circulate the email to see if anyone else is interested.

9) Date of next meeting

The next meeting will be on April 19th. As yet neither a venue nor a speaker has been agreed, though Jacqui (RUSI) said it might be possible for her to host and also to talk about the work she has been doing.
